News Room

Since ProVac's beginning in September 2006, the program has been actively conducting analysis, workshops, and field studies in the Region.
ProVac in PAHO's Immunization Newsletter

-
Multiyear project proposal for the promotion of evidence-based policy decisions for new vaccine introduction in Latin America and the Caribbean

-
Descriptive analysis of immunization policy decision-making in the Americas

ProVac: Cost-effectiveness Analysis of Rotavirus Vaccines

-
Network of ProVac Centers of Excellence in Economic Evaluations and Decision Analysis

-
On-line International Vaccine Economics and Statistics (OLIVES)

-
ProVac Model for Evaluating the Costeffectiveness of Cervical Cancer Control Strategies
ProVac in WHO's Global Immunization Newsletter

-
Report of the ProVac HPV Costing Workshop

-
ProVac Workshop on the Essential Components of a Cost-effectiveness Analysis: the case of the rotavirus vaccine

-
Report of the Meeting of the Network of ProVac Centers of Excellence in Economic Evaluations and Decision Analysis

-
ProVac Workshop to Finalize Country-led Cost-effectiveness Analyses on Rotavirus and Pneumococcal Conjugate Vaccines in 7 Countries

-
Meeting of Centers of Excellence in Economic Evaluations and Decision Analysis – ProVac Initiative

-
The ProVac Initiative Pilot tests HPV decision support tool in Jamaica

-
ProVac Model for Evaluating the Cost-effectiveness of Cervical Cancer Control Strategies

-
Fourth ProVac Network of Centers of Excellence Meeting

-
ProVac Visit to Peru and El Salvador: A Launch and a Closing of a Pneumococcal Conjugated Vaccine (PCV) Cost-effectiveness Analysis

-
ProVac Experience-Sharing Workshop: Cost-effectiveness analyses of cervical cancer prevention and control strategies

-
The ProVac International Working Group begins its first Country Study of the Two-year Pilot Phase