Report of the '93 Workshop in Winnipeg, Canada

From April 13th to 18th, 1993, at the invitation of the Pan American Health Organization, representatives from Indigenous Peoples of the Hemisphere gathered in Canadá, in the city of Winnipeg, Manitoba, to discuss the health status of their own community at the beginning of the International Year of the Indigenous Peoples of the World. This was the first gathering ever held at hemispheric level which was designed to allow indigenous leaders and their potential development partners to consider priority indigenous health requirements, a full 500 years after Columbus first came to America. April 13th-18th, 1993, Villamaria, Winnipeg, Canada
